Brand Guidelines

Brand Icon

JustiFi's brand is evolving from a literal mark to a meaningful one. The old cluster of abstract dots said "we connect data" — true, but generic and it covered the Fi portion of our logo. The new treatment resolves those dots into the proof symbol: ∴, the sign for therefore. It signals what JustiFi delivers — not "trust us," but proven.

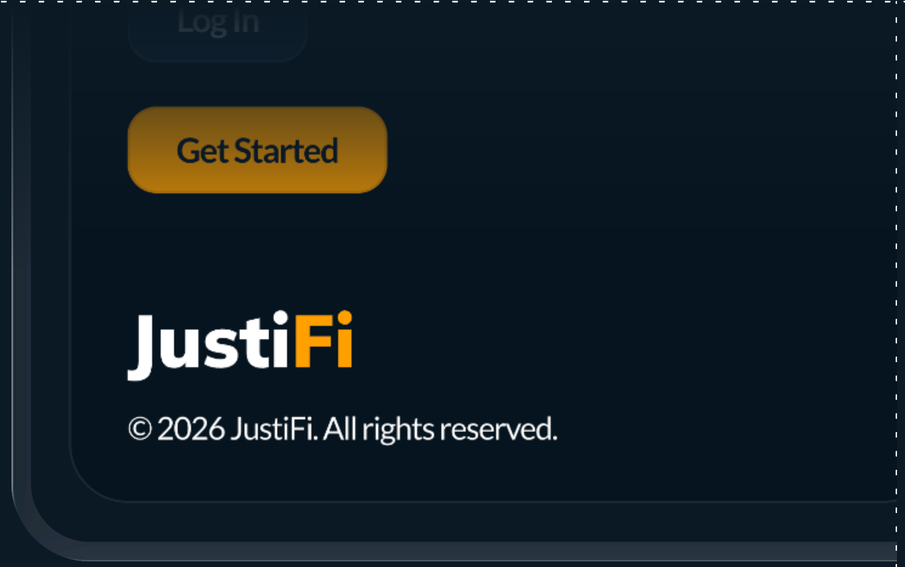

Brand Icon Applications

The Icon is meant to be used in smaller brand applications, when the brand needs to be identified but not explained and in settings that demand the smallest form factor.

JustiFi

Word Mark

A slightly modified word mark from Mulish Black, with rounded dots on the “i”’s to play well with the Brand Icon.

Word Mark Applications

For use in legal, internal, or other applications where identifying the name is preferred without the need for the primary logo.

Primary Logo

The full brand lockup, including both the icon and word mark.

Primary Logo Applications

For use in primary brand settings, & where viewers will be interacting with the brand for the first time.

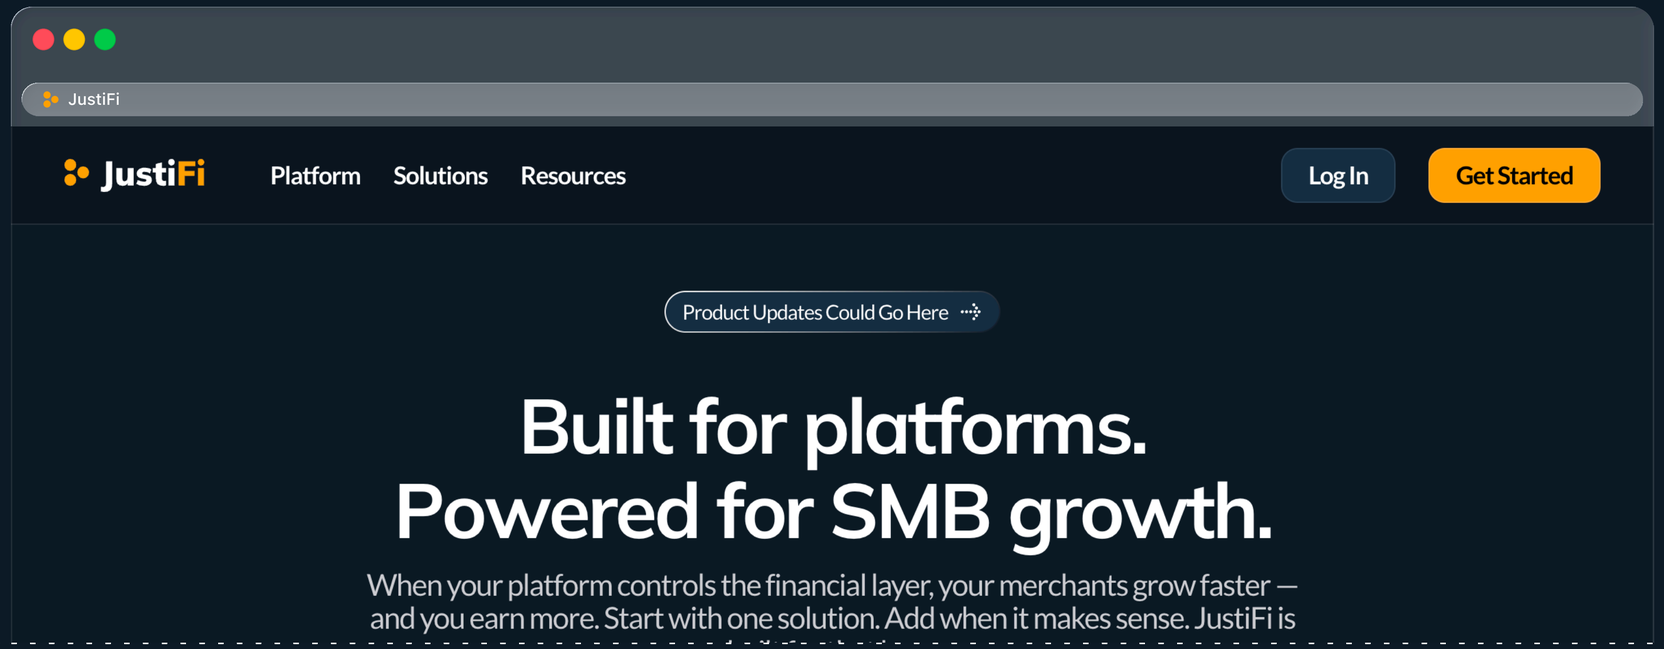

Primary Logo Animation

The mark also moves. Rather than rest in the apex-up "therefore" position — a configuration already owned by Asana — it pivots to face right: the cue for forward, the next move. That steps clear of an established mark and turns proof into momentum.

Headline Font

Mulish Bold

A single weight lighter compared to the Mulish Black weight used in the word mark.

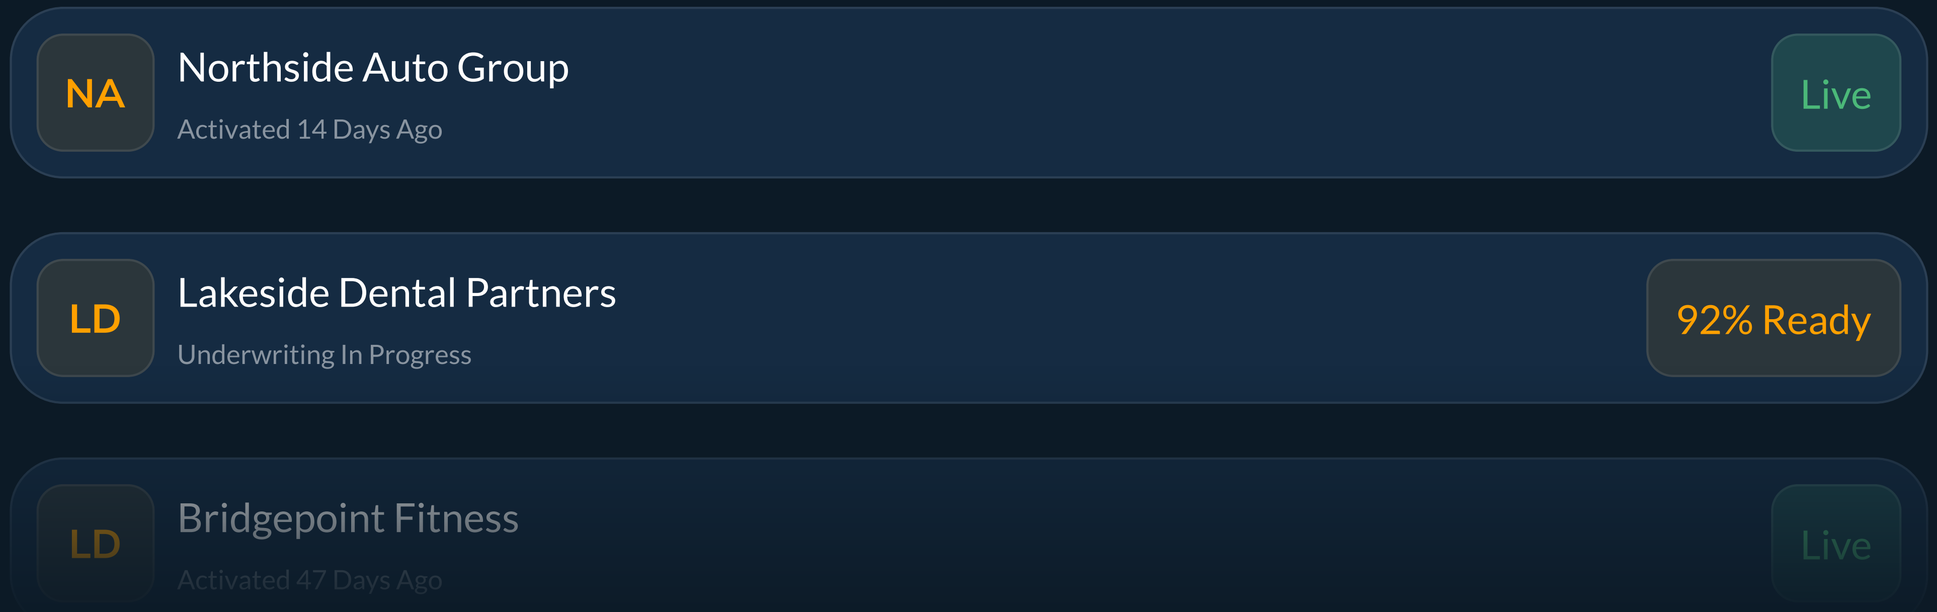

Headline Font Applications

For use in headings & statement copy such as ads & signage.

Body Font

Lato Regular

A strong & flexible sans-serif with a touch of classic lettering to ground body text.

Body Font Applications

For use anywhere where there’s more than a full sentence of copy & in standard UI elements.

Color System

Color Usage

Use the primary navy as a base, yellow for branding & CTA's and accent colors sparingly when they add value.

Control

Flexibility

Growth

Visual System Usage

The wider style — deep navy, restrained amber, clean geometric type — is deliberately mature and straightforward: the calm authority of infrastructure you build on. The dots add up to therefore, then point to what's next.
